Gen. Marshall Succumbs At 78

Father Of Cold War Plan III For Long Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. George Catlett Marshall — who helped lead U.S. arms to victory in World War II and fathered the cold war Marshall Plan—died Friday after a long illness. He was 78.

Death came to Marshall at Walter Reed Army Hospital where he had been under care since last March 11. There was no immediate word on cause of death, but the soldier-statesman had been seriously ill since suffering a stroke at his winter home in Pinehurst, N.C., last Jan. 15.

President Eisenhower said Marshall's death "is cause for profound grief throughout the United States."

Eisenhower spoke glowingly of Marshall's World War II record as Army chief of staff and later as secretary of state and secretary of defense in the administration of President Harry S. Truman.

Was An Inspiration

"His courage, fortitude and vision, his selflessness and stern standards of conduct and character were an inspiration, not only within the Army, but throughout the nation and among our allies," Eisenhower's statement said.

"For his unwavering devotion to the safeguarding of the security and freedom of our nation, for his wise counsel and action and driving determination in times of grave danger, we are lastingly in his debt."

Marshall's death must be especially poignant to Eisenhower, because Marshall is generally credited with plucking Eisenhower from obscurity at the outset of World War II and starting him upward toward becoming supreme Allied commander in Europe.

A native of Uniontown, Pa., Marshall graduated from historic Virginia Military Institute and went on to become one of the few non-West Pointers to achieve top rank in the Army.

Flags At Half Staff

Eisenhower issued a proclamation ordering that the flag be flown at half-staff upon all public buildings and grounds, at military posts and naval stations, and on naval vessels until after his funeral.

The Defense Department said funeral arrangements may not be announced until Saturday.

In three great wars and in two Cabinet posts, Marshall had served his country with distinction. He was a key craftsman of U.S. strategy and policy in World War II, in the baffling cold war with the Soviet Union, and in the conflict in Korea against Asiatic Reds.

The greatest military force in American history—some nine million—was born in his mind.

Mine Cavein Traps Three

TONOPAH, Nev. (UPI)—Three Nevada miners were trapped in a silver mine 300 feet below the earth Friday and authorities were fearful their air supply could not last.

Hope that the men would emerge from the cavein alive dimmed as the hours passed.

A grim-faced rescue crew of 30 miners worked in relay teams in a race to clear away the dirt and rubble that blocked the mine passage at the 300 foot level.

Digging began shortly after the cavein was discovered at the Mohawk mine at 11 a.m. e.d.t. The trapped men went to work Thursday night.

A spokesman for the company which owned the mine identified two of the men as James Robertson, 33, of Mina, Nev., and Samuel Sickles of Tonopah. The identity of the third man, believed to be an Indian worker, was unknown.

CBS Cancels Big Money Quiz Shows

President Says Scandal Has Hurt All Broadcasting

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — President Frank Stanton of the Columbia Broadcasting System, announced Friday all big-money quiz shows will be eliminated from his television network. He said the quiz show scandal has given all broadcasting a black eye.

Stanton made the announcement at a meeting here of the Radio Television News Directors Assn. Stanton told a newsmen the shows the network was considering dropping under his edict were "Name That Tune," "Top Dollar," and "The Big Pay Off." The network already has dropped its biggest quiz shows, in the wake of the rigging scandal.

Stanton made the announcement at a meeting here of the Radio Television News Directors Assn. Stanton told a newsmen the shows the network was considering dropping under his edict were "Name That Tune," "Top Dollar," and "The Big Pay Off." The network already has dropped its biggest quiz shows, in the wake of the rigging scandal.

Chairman Earl W. Kintner of the Federal Trade Commission, angry over testimony of rigged TV quiz shows, Thursday called on the industry to regulate itself or face government action.

"Millions of Americans were duped by what went on behind the scenes during the production of many of these quiz shows, and so were we," Stanton told the New Orleans gathering.

"We are now convinced that games whose major appeal is the winning by contestants of large sums of money or lavishly expensive prizes ought not to be carried on the CBS television network."

The dangers inherent in such programs, as presently conceived, have been highlighted for all to see, and we do not believe that any system of policing, public or private, however carefully devised, can plug up all the possibilities for hanky-panky in the production of the programs.

A House committee, in hearings last week, elicited testimony that several now defunct big-money quiz shows were rigged, with some contestants receiving questions or answers in advance.

The committee concentrated its attention on NBC and such of its well-known shows as "Twenty-One." Then it recessed to Nov. 2. A committee spokesman said that when the hearings resume, attention will be turned to two of CBS's big quiz shows, the "$64,000 Question," and the "$64,000 Challenge." Both went off the air after the original investigation into rigged quiz shows began in the summer of 1958.

Hussein Orders Lands Divided

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A royal statement announced Friday that King Hussein has ordered 27,000 dunoms—nearly 7,000 acres—of his own lands split up and given to landless peasants. The gift was announced a few days before a state visit here by the Shah of Iran, who has distributed large portions of his private holdings among his people.

Nuclear Bombs Are Found In Plane Wreckage

HARDINSBURG, Ky. (UPI)—Air Force disaster teams using Geiger counters Friday found two nuclear bombs intact in the wreckage of a B52 jet bomber which collided with its jet tanker Thursday night, killing eight of the 12 crewmen aboard the planes.

Four members of the eight-jet B52's crew bailed out and landed safely with only minor injuries. The bodies of four others and all four aboard the exploding tanker were found on the debris-strewn north central Kentucky hillsides 20 miles south of here where the two planes plunged to earth.

Disaster teams from the Strategic Air Force headquarters of Offutt Air Force Base, Neb., Barksdale Air Force Base, La., and the planes' home base at Columbus, Miss., found the bombs near a crater eight feet deep and 45 feet long, dug by the crashing bomber.

At first it was announced that the bomber carried a nuclear weapon, but an official community from Lt. Gen. John P. McConnell, 2nd Air Force commander who was on the scene, testified the word "weapons." News men who had flown to the area in an Army helicopter saw two bulky devices, about six feet long, wrapped in blankets.

One crewman's body had been found and identified previously. General McConnell's community said the bodies of seven others who had been carried officially as "missing," had been located, but not individually identified.

The general emphasized that this was the first such accident in nine years during which Strategic Air Command crews have carried on in-flight refueling. He said a full-scale investigation would be made, but that there was no question of the skill and qualifications of either crew.

Washington Officials Pay Homage To Gen. Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington officials headed by President Eisenhower paid homage Friday night to Gen. George C. Marshall, who died at the age of 78 after a lengthy illness.

"For his wartime role as chief of staff of the Army, and for his subsequent service as secretary of state and as secretary of defense," Eisenhower said in a statement, "he has been honored as soldier and statesman."

"His courage, fortitude and vision, his selflessness and stern standards of conduct and character were an inspiration, not only within the army but throughout the nations and among our allies."

"We are everlastingly in his debt."

Speaking for the Army, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chief of staff, voiced personal sorrow at Marshall's death.

"Gen. Marshall was unquestionably one of the greatest Americans of this century," Lemnitzer said. "His long and outstanding career as an Army officer and

Khrushchev's Peace Doctrine Is Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The doctrine of peaceful coexistence advocated by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as offering a way out of the cold war was sharply challenged Friday by a U.S. spokesman.

The peoples of the world "are entitled to something better," Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding said.

Berding said the United States cannot accept an arrangement with the Soviet Union that would rule out for the peoples in Communist nations the prospects of obtaining "true freedom, genuine national independence, and whatever form of government and economic and social institutions they wish."

"Peoples live, they do not simply coexist," Berding said in a speech to a meeting of the National Assn. of Broadcasters. "In the same way, nations should live and cooperate for the increasing welfare of their peoples; they should not simply coexist, albeit in peace."

Berding, assistant secretary of state for public affairs, described a summit conference "in the reasonably near future" as a distinct possibility.

The greatest threat to world peace at present, Berding declared, results from the "expansionist aim, backed by fanatical policies," of the Chinese Communists. The Soviet Union, he added, has a responsibility as the leading nation of the Communist bloc to moderate Chinese Communist behavior.

In effect Berding argued that the degree of sincerity behind Khrushchev's talk about ending the cold war must be judged not only by the actions of the Soviet Union but also by the actions of Red China.

His criticism of Khrushchev's doctrine of peaceful coexistence was one of the strongest and most direct yet made by a ranking U.S. official and one of the few in the weeks since the Camp David conference between President Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

Bell Aircraft Produces Machine

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—Production in quantity of a high-performance accelerometer for use in the U.S. Army's sergeant surface-to-surface guided ballistic missile is being carried out by Bell Aircraft Corp., officials announced Friday.

Designed and developed by Bell's avionics division, it is being manufactured and tested at the firm's Cleveland, Ohio, avionics laboratory under contract to the Sperry Utah Engineering Laboratory, Salt Lake City. Sperry is prime contractor for the Sergeant missile.

Actor Fitzgerald Shows Progress

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Barry Fitzgerald is progressing very satisfactorily, his doctor said Friday night.

The 71-year-old Irish actor, now retired, underwent an exploratory operation at a Dublin hospital Thursday for a suspected brain tumor. Attendants declined to say what was found.

Shipyards Workers Denied Jobless Pay Benefits

BALTIMORE (AP)—Most of 1,100 workers laid off by the Bethlehem Steel Co. shipyard were denied jobless pay Friday.

The ruling against the employees came from the 3-man Board of Appeals of the Maryland Department of Employment Security. In turn, it is expected to be appealed to the courts.

A union contract at the shipyard expired July 30, but the workers have continued to offer to work. Those laid off argued they were entitled to jobless benefits. They were opposed by the company.

The state appeals board ruled out benefits to any workers unemployed between July 30 and Sept. 7. On the latter date, company records showed its work force was back to normal.

Counsel Seeks Chessman Stay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Counsel for Caryl Chessman flew to Washington from a California clemency hearing Friday in a new attempt to get a Supreme Court hearing for the condemned lovers lane murderer.

Chessman is due to die in San Quentin's gas chamber next Friday unless:

1. Gov. Edmund G. Brown grants a plea to commute the death sentence to life imprisonment on the basis of a three-hour hearing in Sacramento Thursday.

2. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas grants a petition filed Friday for more time to prepare a new appeal.

Brown, who opposes capital punishment, said he would announce his decision before Monday.

"I'm going to make a ruling one way or another and then I'm through," Brown said at the close of Thursday's hearing.

Friday George T. Davis, Chessman's San Francisco attorney, petitioned Justice Douglas for a stay of execution to enable him to file a new appeal.

At his trial in 1948 Chessman was pictured as a lovers lane prowler who preyed on young couples in parked cars, robbing the men and violating the girls. Despite his protestations of innocence, he was convicted of kidnapping, attempted rape, sex perversion, robbery and car theft. He was sentenced to death on two counts of kidnapping with bodily harm.

Burglary Suspect Gets Wrong Train

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—When Franz Zihlmann, 29, Swiss burglary suspect, noticed that railway station attendants recognized him, he hiked down the tracks to the next station to board a getaway train. The getaway train turned out to be a locomotive commandeered by police, who marched him off to jail.

Giant Brush Fire Kills One, Is Uncontrolled

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A giant brush fire caused a death Friday and blazed uncontrollably toward a tiny foothill community nestled in a steep-sided canyon.

Residents of the Vogel Flat settlement were evacuated as flames moved down slopes of 5,043-foot Mt. Lukens toward 100 homes in Big Tujunga Canyon. An Indian firefighter from Zuni, N.M., was fatally injured battling the flames on the Mt. Lukens fireline.

The 7,800-acre blaze, which burned into its fourth day, was blamed on a careless smoker. It started in the foothills 15 miles north of Los Angeles.

Massed men and equipment stopped the flames earlier when they menaced expensive hillside homes in suburban Altadena and La Canada.

Steel Strike Closes Big GM Auto Plants

DETROIT (AP)—Steel starvation began closing automobile assemblies by General Motors Corp. Friday.

And there was speculation that the nation's biggest automaker might be shut down by Nov. 1 or shortly thereafter.

GM itself reported it had 60,000 idled because of a lack of steel occasioned by the nation's 94-day-old strike of steelmakers, and was closing one Chevrolet assembly plant Friday and two more Tuesday.

Ward's Automotive Reports, a usually reliable industry statistical firm, said 10 of 13 Chevrolet assembly plants will be closed next week. GM declined comment on this.

General Motors is the hardest hit by dwindling steel inventories. Ford, which makes half the steel it uses and is the only steelmaker in the auto industry, has said it can keep going through November. Chrysler has given no indication of imminent shutdowns.

Ford's steel mill workers are represented by the United Auto Workers, not the striking United Steelworkers Union.

Studebaker-Packard and American Motors have reported themselves in good shape for the time being at least.

Chevrolet division said it was shutting down Friday its assembly plant in Framingham, Mass., and would close up Chevy assembly in Atlanta, Ga., and Janesville, Wis., Tuesday.

With Chevrolet supplier plants closing over the last two weeks because of steel shortages or because they had built as many parts as could be used in immediately foreseeable assembly of 1960 models, that division estimated it had 30,000 of GM's 60,000 idle workmen.

Here's how other GM divisions looked: Pontiac, plans to drain all supply lines and probably can make it through October.

Buick, enough steel and parts possibly to go a week or so past Nov. 1.

Oldsmobile, can go through Oct. 30 at Lansing, Mich., and outlying plants.

Cadillac, will quit at the end of October, although some parts still will be on hand.

Garlic Good Stuff?

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Evening Moscow carried an advertisement Friday for garlic, saying it had "prophylactic qualities for preventing flu."

The Idaho doctors called a plastic surgeon at the Latter-day Saints Hospital here for advice. He told them to put the scalp in a cool salt solution.

The girl and her scalp were flown here.

On her arrival, surgeons worked over her for six hours.

They attached her ears, eyebrows and eyelids to the abdomen, hoping they would grow and later could be transplanted to the face and head.

Skin was taken from the abdomen and thigh to cover the neck, cheeks and jawbone.

A spokesman reported Thursday on Christene's progress saying he was pleased with the success of the operation. He said Christene's morale was good and her condition was good, considering the extent of the scalping.

A hospital spokesman said she probably died from heart failure due to shock.

Mitchell Sees Quick Strike Settlement

Workers Reportedly Slice Money Request About One-Third

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Steelworkers Union Friday made a compromise peace offer scaling down its money demands, and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said he is optimistic that the 94-day steel strike may be settled quickly.

"The parties are closer together than they have been since the negotiations started," Mitchell told newsmen.

Mitchell declined to comment on the merits of the union's latest proposal in which the steelworkers reportedly cut their money demands by about one-third.

Earlier, Union President David J. McDonald declined to spell out details.

The administration is expected to seek a strike-halting court injunction early next week in the event industry-union negotiations collapsed or became deadlocked again over the weekend.

Top industry executives promised to study the proposal. Their answer is to be made known to the union here late Saturday.

An industry counteroffer would surprise nobody, since the union proposal for ending the 94-day strike reportedly left unsatisfied the management demand for more freedom in changing work practices to achieve manpower economies.

Highly placed sources said the union proposal contemplated a 21-cent-an-hour increase for the workers over a two-year period. This would include no wage boost but substantial insurance, pension and supplemental unemployment benefits during the first year, plus a sizable pay hike of about 10 cents an hour in the second year.

This amounted to roughly 10 cents an hour extra a year in contrast to the earlier union demand for approximately 15 cents an hour additional each year. Before the strike began, steelworkers averaged $3.11 an hour.

From all sides—from the government, from steel customers and, likely, from the purse-strained 500,000 strikers—pressure was being applied to the industry and union to quit haggling and hammer out a new contract.

The government slapped defense priorities Friday on available steel supplies. The Commerce Department issued orders channeling production by the 15 percent of the industry still operating into items destined for use in missiles, launching sites and nuclear submarines.

The order also requires that the priorities continue for new steel produced by the rest of the industry when the strike ends.

The growing pinch on the economy was illustrated by word from Detroit that General Motors Corp. may have to stop producing autos by Nov. 1 due to lack of steel. Already 60,000 GM employees have been laid off. Altogether, more than 725,000 workers in and out of steel have been idled by the strike.

Flynn Begins Final Journey

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Errol Flynn sets out Friday night on his final journey.

The body of the actor, who died here this week, is being sent back to Los Angeles by train.

Accompanying the body will be stunt man Buster Wiles, long-time friend of the man who was an adventurer in real life as well in his motion pictures.

Legal papers authorizing Wiles to take the swashbuckling film hero's body across the border were made out Thursday night, ending a dispute over funeral arrangements between Flynn's girl friend, Beverly Aadland, and his estranged wife, night club singer Pat Wymore. Miss Aadland flew to Los Angeles Friday.

Flynn, 50, died of a heart attack in a Vancouver apartment Wednesday night.

Wiles came here to take charge of the funeral arrangements at the request of Miss Wymore's lawyer.

At Glendale, Calif., Miss Wymore said funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday in the Church of the Reconciliation at Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Interment at Forest Lawn will follow.

CROSSROADS

Here's what happens when four super-highways meet—a far cry from that simple "plus mark" we used to call an intersection!

Life is becoming more complex, isn't it? No longer is it simply a matter of finding the right road. Today you can't even get on the right road until you find the right approach. And you had better be mighty sure of the direction you want to go, or you'll find yourself speeding away from your destination on a turnpike that permits no U-turn.

As life has become more complex, the value of a deep abiding religious conviction has become more evident. Against a background of confusion and uncertainty the confident assurance of Christian faith is sharply silhouetted.

And the millions who have turned to the Church for truth and guidance have made a thrilling discovery. The Way of Christ is still just as clear, direct, and inspiring as it was to those who heard it first by the Galilean road.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sen. Jennings Randolph Speaks At Opening Of Harpers Ferry Centennial

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va. (UPI) — Events of the past should be used to guide the future, U. S. Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., said Friday during the observance of the 100th anniversary of John Brown's ill-fated raid on a federal arsenal here.

Randolph was principal speaker at Friday's portion of the four-day observance marking the event which preceded the war between the states.

"As we observe this centennial of the raid on Harpers Ferry, we see that even in the war which followed in the perspective of a century's growth toward the realization of the American dream," the senator said. "As a people, we Americans are inclined to think that history is something which happens to other people, not to us."

Randolph said this probably was because the United States, among all the world powers, is the one nation which has never been defeated in war.

"If we confuse material values with the higher and more enduring spiritual values, we will be reaction committee with Roger under no cosmic dispensation Horne, Cynthia Hutchins, Beth which exempts us from the tides of history," he said. "Such an awareness should cultivate in us a sense of national humility and a sense that we will best prevail when we speak for the widest and greatest good of free men and women everywhere."

Band concerts and local residents in pre-civil war costumes highlighted Friday's observance which also included the second showing of "The Prophet," a play of depicting the events of 100 years ago.

Saturday, a Marine Reserve Unit will reenact the storming of the arsenal and the capture of Brown, a fiery Kansas abolitionist who was later hanged for his crime.

Scheduled to attend the affair is Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia. He will attend the afternoon portrayal of the historical event, be honored guest at a private dinner, attend the evening showing of the historical drama, and be honored guest at a reception.

TRI-STATE CONFERENCE MEETS

Women's Auxiliary No. 52 Organized 34 Years Ago

Women's Auxiliary 52, to Cumberland Local 244, ITU, was founded February 7, 1925, through the efforts of the late Mrs. Edith (Kirby) Hutton, with 27 charter members. The first officers were Mrs. James Orr, president; Mrs. John McCullough, vice president; Mrs. Mary Luteman, secretary, and Mrs. Charles Barringer, treasurer.

Printing Art Has Changed Over The Years

From Hand Set Type In Early Times To Automation Today

For over 500 years the printing industry has been straining at the task of finding radical, new developments and means of putting the printed word on paper.

In the year 1440 Johannes Gutenberg achieved one of the greatest accomplishments, type-setting. He is known as the father of the first perfect moveable type and by 1450 he began work on his famous Bible. This was the beginning of handset type.

Late in the 19th century, 1806, Ottmar Mergenthaler, a German watchmaker, built his first experimental machine for setting type—the Linotype. This was the first machine to set type mechanically by a printer operating a keyboard.

Two other inventions—1906, offset press invented by Ira W. Rubel and—1928, Teletypesetter invented by Walter A. Morey, further advanced the art of printing. Both of the latter machines, along with numerous photo-composition machines and paste-machine devices, developed in the last ten years, are playing a big part in the recent changes in today's composing rooms.

As can be noted above, for a considerable period of time, improvements in the graphic arts were slow, but lately a veritable avalanche of new processes has descended upon us. However, the International Typographical Union Training Center, Indianapolis, Ind., has kept abreast of these advances and through refresher courses for former students and a steady influx of new students is helping local new processes training schools to keep pace in training ITU members.

The Tri-State Typographical Conference, in recent meetings and at the sessions being held today and tomorrow at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, emphasize these new processes.

At the meeting Saturday, 3 p. m., Mr. Harold Ruddle, ITU Training Center instructor, will present a demonstration of the ITU Ruling Machine and explain to various displays of new processes which are taught at the Training Center.

Demonstrations Sunday will be presented by manufacturers of new processes equipment which is making inroads into today's composing rooms.

The demonstrations presented here will point out new and further advances in the field of photo-composition. This is a method of producing a printed image on either film or photographic paper for use of the compositor. He assembles these photographic pieces along with pictures, rules, borders, etc., into the type form for use in producing advertisements to be printed in newspapers, magazines, or for producing offset plates used in modern job printing.

Some newspapers today are changing to these new methods and are producing from five to 100 per cent of their display advertisements by new processes.

A visitor to the modern composing room today will find not only some handset type, but also manually operated typesetting machines as well as some typesetting machines operated from either punched tape or electronics.

Union Label And Service Trades Department Observes 50th Anniversary

Historically speaking, 1909 was not much of a year to remember.

It is possibly true that, for the historians of the day, 1909 was just another year that slipped by. But, for the trade union movement and for the buying public of America, 1909 was a most important year. That was the year when trade unionists decided it was time to establish a national organization for the purpose of promoting and publicizing the emblems of working people and their unions—the Union Label, the Shop Card and the Service Button. The year 1909 marked the establishment of what is now the Union Label and Service Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations and the beginning of a half-century of the urging union members, their families and friends to look for the Union Label, when they buy—when you buy and when you to demand the Shop Card and spend—The Typographical Journal Service Button when they spend!

With the celebration of our golden anniversary, we also take a forward look. We anticipate the time when more and more union members and their families will realize that the very way they spend their union-earned wages today can determine their future benefits and security for tomorrow.

As we reflect on this half-century of progress in promoting and publicizing these important emblems—and look forward to countless other centuries of attainment in this vital field—let us constantly see to it that our union-earned wages do not go astory in pursuit of non-union goods and services.

Invest soundly in your own future and in the future of your best beginning of a half-century of friend—your own union. Look for urging union members, their families and friends to look for the Union Label, when they buy—when you buy and when you to demand the Shop Card and spend—The Typographical Journal Service Button when they spend!

nal, May, 1959.

Since the Auxiliary has formed many changes have been effected in the makeup of the organization. There is only one of the original 27 charter members living who is still active in the Auxiliary, Mrs. May Orr.

Mrs. Theresa Cline, another charter member of the Auxiliary and chairman of the entertainment committee of the Women's Auxiliary for this session of the Conference, died Tuesday, September 22 and was buried Friday, September 25.

Mrs. Cline was a regular visitor at many of the sessions of this Conference and will be remembered for her jolly disposition and kindness to all.

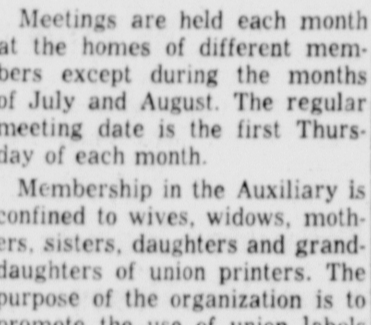

The first president of the Auxiliary was Mrs. May Orr. She is still a member and attends many of the Tri-State affairs. The first secretary was Mary Luteman, who is now deceased. Mrs. Luteman was a member of Local 244 and an operator at the newspaper plant. She was an ardent Unionist and fought for better conditions for the printers.

She was a one-time delegate and frequent visitor at Tri-State Conference meetings.

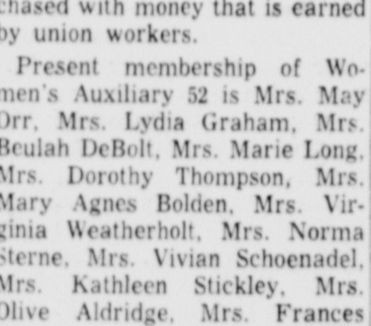

The present officers of the Auxiliary are Mrs. Norma Sterne, president; Mrs. Mary Agnes Bolden, vice president; and Mrs. Mae Biller, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Lydia Graham, guide, and Mrs. Beulah DeBolt, chaplain.

May Orr

Norma Sterne

Mae Biller

Meetings are held each month at the homes of different members except during the months of July and August. The regular meeting date is the first Thursday of each month.

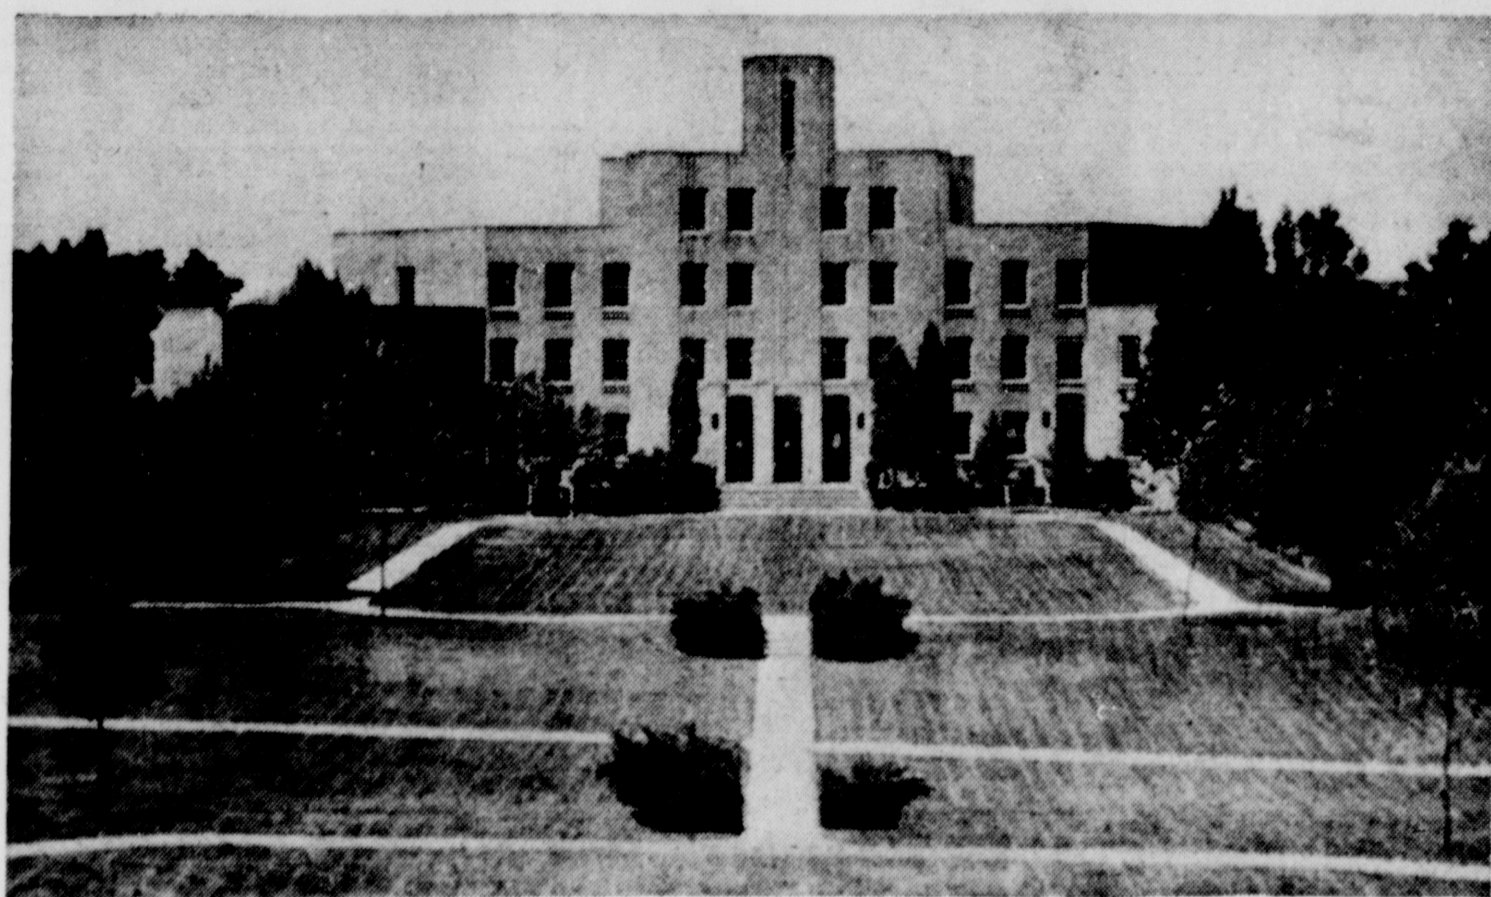

Membership in the Auxiliary is confined to wives, widows, mothers, sisters, daughters and granddaughters of union printers. The purpose of the organization is to promote the use of union labels on union made products purchased with money that is earned by union workers.

Present membership of Women's Auxiliary 52 is Mrs. May Orr, Mrs. Lydia Graham, Mrs. Beulah DeBolt, Mrs. Marie Long, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, Mrs. Mary Agnes Bolden, Mrs. Virginia Weatherholt, Mrs. Norma Sterne, Mrs. Vivian Schoenadel, Mrs. Kathleen Stickley, Mrs. Olive Aldridge, Mrs. Frances Ritchie, Mrs. Jane Garlitz, Mrs. Mae Biller, Mrs. Dorothy Shaner.

It is hoped by the officers that other members of printers families will affiliate with the Auxiliary after this Conference session. Every member of a union printer's family who is eligible should become a member of this Auxiliary.

Workers Trained

In the skilled trades, 250,000 workers must be trained each year just to maintain the nation's present skilled work force, without allowing for expansion, the U. S. Labor Department points out.

Union Printers Home At Colorado Springs Is Haven

Members of Cumberland Typographical Union Local 244 are proud of their Home at Colorado Springs, Colo. It is their Home because every member of the International Typographical Union pays a portion of his earnings into a fund which supports the Home. It is financed entirely by dues-paying members of the Union.

Suppose someone should tell you that it was possible to place an older person, one needing complete hospitalization, emergency surgery, or one needing the services of a tuberculosis sanatorium, with all medical attention, physicians of recognized repute, trained technicians, nurses and orderlies, medicines, laboratory facilities, good and wholesome food served regularly and appetizingly, including an abundance of fresh milk, cream, eggs and poultry produced on the premises, barbering services, recreational barges, clothing after the patient's initial supply is exhausted, and an administration staff to take care of banking, arrange transportation, and give many other services, as well as the giving out of tooth paste, brushes, shoe strings and other personal requirements—in a beautiful institution with the world's best scenic panorama as a setting and in modern fireproof quarters—for a total per capita cost of slightly more than $200 per month? It would seem incredible, would it not?

But that is precisely what the Union Printers and Mailers of the International Typographical Union are doing at their spacious and beautiful Home in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

The Union Printers Home is unique in many ways. There is no other establishment like it. One of its chief individualistic characteristics, if not the foremost, is that it is unmistakably a monument to American self-reliance and traditional American independence. Not one public-tax token is appropriated for the support of the Union Printers Home. For more than 63 years members of the International Typographical Union have furnished necessary finances for progress and maintenance of the Union Printers Home from their pay envelopes. As a result, every ITU member is proud of his handiwork.

The fact that a labor union could have established so efficient an institution and administered its affairs in such an orderly and dignified manner is frequently a source of astonishment to both business and professional persons. They are quite surprised that the union has retained control of the administration of the institution it founded and financed. The incontrovertible evidence of what members of the International Typographical Union have accomplished is a tribute to their business acumen and, in addition, they have successfully conducted an altruistic enterprise.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Colorado as a non-profit institution, which it is in all of its ramifications, the Union

Printers Home, with its dormitory, hospital and tuberculosis sections, is well managed. It has a Board of Trustees composed of seven members, elected by the membership of the ITU. Members of the board serve terms on a graduated basis, thus precluding an immediate turnover of all board members at any one time.

The Board of Trustees has general supervision over the operation of the Home and all its departments. It is also the policy making body. This board meets once a year in the city of Colorado Springs, and is geographically representative of the ITU's community. The personnel of the board of Trustees is Elmer Brown, New York, president; Roy T. Baker, Denver, Colo., vice president; William R. Cloud, Seattle, Wash., secretary-treasurer, and Trustees Guy M. Billingsley, Washington, D. C.; William J. Beacham, Atlanta, Ga.; Basil J. Hillman, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and William F. Foley, Pawtucket, R. I., International Typographical Union agent of the Home.

Since the opening of the Home in 1892—9,219 union printers have been admitted either as permanent residents or to receive hospital treatment. At the present time there are 251 residents at the home.

The average monthly cost of operating the Home is $57,430.43. This includes care of residents and salaries of personnel, along with medical expenses.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowell E. Patterson are the administrators of the Home. They have guided and supervised operational administration at the institution for nearly 15 years. Before going to Colorado, the Pattersons were residents of South Carolina. Mr. Patterson received training in institutional administration as a member of the South Carolina Planning Commission which brought about rehabilitation of state institutions during the depression through Federal aid. He has held many offices of honor and trust, including several terms as a legislator. Mrs. Patterson, a gracious southern lady, has background experience in social work. Both have had much experience in the field of industrial and human relations.

Among persons restored to healthful vigor are members of Congress, persons in high places in government, local, state and national, bankers, business men, clergymen, journalists, statesmen and educators of high degree. All were members of the International Typographical Union.

Because of its progressively expanding alumni, pyramidal from 1892, the influence of the Union Printers Home, at Colorado Springs, is illimitable. Its chief support comes from members of the ITU who enthusiastically support it. It has a modest endowment fund to which contributions are made on a strictly voluntary basis.

First Linotype

The first Linotype machine was purchased by the newspaper in Cumberland in 1899. Today the newspaper plant has 13 machines.

Secretary

SECRETARY — Irvin M. Kelley has served as secretary of the Tri-State Typographical Conference for several years. He is a past president of the conference and is also secretary of Altoona ITU Local 240.

TB Sanatorium At Home Is A-1

Throughout its 67 years of operation the Union Printers Home has been recognized in each of its several capacities. Its home for the aged has been a model for a number of similar institutions which have been recently established by state and religious organizations. Its tuberculosis sanatorium began to receive honorable references when the fight to control this dread disease was initially instigated. Direct commendation by the late President Theodore Roosevelt, for advanced treatments of tuberculosis during that time, is a matter of record.

During the last decade the Union Printers Home hospital and sanatorium has performed outstanding services in treating persons suffering from chronic incapacitations and furnishing appropriate surgical procedures. In 1951, the Home hospital was licensed by the State of Colorado for the first time as a general and surgical hospital. The tuberculosis sanatorium received its license from the state many years ago.

Among persons restored to healthful vigor are members of Congress, persons in high places in government, local, state and national, bankers, business men, clergymen, journalists, statesmen and educators of high degree. All were members of the International Typographical Union.

Because of its progressively expanding alumni, pyramidal from 1892, the influence of the Union Printers Home, at Colorado Springs, is illimitable. Cumberland Local No. 244 Was Host Last In 1947

Cumberland Typographical Union Local 244 is again host to the Tri-State Typographical Conference, meeting in its 86th semi-annual session today and tomorrow. The last time Cumberland was host to the Conference was in 1947. The Conference headquarters is at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, where all business sessions will be held.

The first business session will be called to order this afternoon by the Conference president, Alfred R. Glaser, of Beaver Falls, Pa. Reports from local unions and introduction of visiting dignitaries are the order of business today.

A dinner will be held at Ali Ghan Shrine City Club, South Centre Street, beginning at 6:30 p. m. Dancing will be held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel Ballroom beginning at 9 p. m.

The dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Club will be prepared and served by Mrs. Elda Schell and her ladies.

Principal address at the Saturday night affair will be made by Elmer Brown, president of The International Typographical Union, who will speak on matters of interest to members of the union. He will also address the Sunday business session.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor of Cumberland, will be toastmaster at the dinner and will introduce a representative of the city who will extend greetings from Cumberland to the assembled guests. President Alfred R. Glaser of the Conference will respond to the greeting from the city.

The last time Cumberland Local 244 was host to the Conference was in 1947. The conference was organized in Meadville, Pa., in 1916, with its aim being to "promote the welfare of union printers." The organizers decided to call the new organization The Western Pennsylvania Typographical Conference. That name remained until 1931 when Morgantown, W. Va., Local 598 affiliated with the Conference at which time the name was changed to the Tri-State Typographical Conference.

Cumberland Local 244 joined the Conference in 1931, followed by Fairmont, W. Va., and Clarksburg, W. Va. The next year Hagerstown, Md. affiliated, but has since dropped out of the Conference.

Historic Spots Recommended To All Visitors

Many Interesting Places To Be Seen Around Cumberland

There are many places in Cumberland with very interesting historical backgrounds for visitors to our city to see.

Anyone interested in American history may find some very enlightening highpoints of the early settlement of the western part of our nation in this city.

For instance, we have the original log cabin headquarters of General George Washington in which he was quartered while a Colonel in the Army during the French and Indian Wars. This cabin has been restored and is now situated in Riverside Park, just off Greene Street. Almost directly opposite are the tunnels from old Fort Cumberland which were used to bring water from Wills Creek while the fort was under siege. These tunnels are situated under the Episcopal Church at the corner of Greene and Washington streets. The old parade grounds of the fort are now occupied by the Allegany County Court House on Washington Street.

The Historic House, which is maintained by the Allegany County Historical Society is situated also on Washington Street. It will be well worth anyone's time to pay a visit to this house. Many antiques are stored there, which show the way of life of the early settlers of Cumberland. Cumberland was first settled in 1755 as a trading post on the old National Pike, the gateway to the West. Six miles from the city on Route 40 west is one of two remaining toll houses which were used as way stations and to collect tolls from travelers using the old Toll Road. A short distance farther west is Clarysville Inn, now a dinner club, which was built in 1809 and used as a hotel and tavern for stagecoach travelers on the National Pike. Initials and dates are still plainly seen on the walls of this Inn, made by wayfarers on their journey to California in 1849 in search of gold.

The Narrows, through which traffic traveling from the West enters the city, is a most beautiful sight with its peculiar formation of rocks and scenic beauty.

Our Queen City Station of the B&O Railroad is also a building with a colorful background. It was at one time the focal point of all social events of this section. Many distinguished figures of early history were guests in the hotel which is a part of the station.

Many battles of the Civil War were fought around Cumberland. The highlight of the Civil War in Cumberland was the capture of General Crook from the old Revere House on Baltimore Street, which has since been torn down to make room for a parking lot at the corner of Baltimore and George streets.

Many of our churches have a beginning back in the early days of Cumberland when we were just a very small community.

Cumberland is on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and is also served by several bus lines. The main east-west and north-south highways either run through our city or may be reached by traveling a short distance.

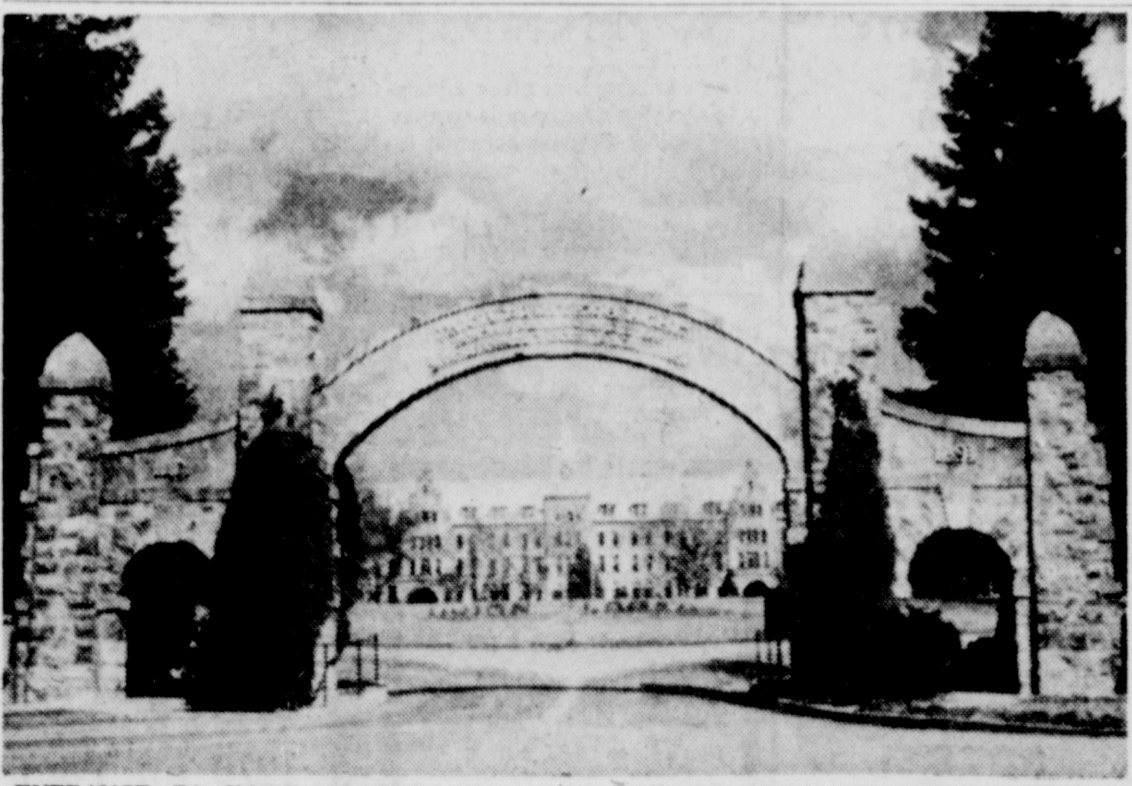

Home Improved Over The Years

The International Typographical Union has developed the land given to the Union Printers Home in Colorado Springs by that city in 1890, into a garden spot, from a dusty and windy hill. Over 16 million dollars have been spent on construction and maintenance since the Home was first opened on May 12, 1892. All that is left of the original buildings are a few outside walls. Landscaping, trees, circular roadways, brick walks, lawns and grass, have changed the site into a show place in Colorado Springs. It now comprises nearly 300 acres.

Home Endures

After many vicissitudes, the Union Printers Home has emerged larger, modern in equipment and competent in its undertakings. It has weathered wars, panics, floods, tornadoes, depressions, inflation and cold wars.

The Union Printers Home exemplifies the motto, "It's Jack Whetzel and James Mona-Bounty Unpurchasable, Its Charity Without Price."

ENTRANCE TO HOME GROUNDS—Shown above is the gateway to the Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., which is maintained by the International Typographical Union for the care of any member who needs it. The Home is maintained entirely by members of the ITU. No outside financial help has ever been asked or received for its support.

Salute To The Newspaperboy

Today is "Newspaperboy Day" throughout the land in salute to the 700,000 young businessmen who, day in and day out, perform the important job of circulating the nation's newspapers.

Scores of carriers perform this service for this newspaper in its circulation area. So the salute we offer on Newspaperboy Day is especially for them.

Perhaps by some standards theirs isn't a "big" job—but it is an exacting one. It's a chore that must be done regardless of weather and regardless of other possible diversions such as a game of ball, the movies, or just loafing with "the gang." Then there's the regular task of making collections.

Aside from the lessons in reliability that delivering papers teaches, this matter of handling accounts probably is the source of the most valuable experience of a newspaperboy. Here he becomes acquainted at an early age with the inexorable law of profit and loss.

Here he learns a lot about human nature as he tries—possibly with many a repeat trip—to keep his accounts from becoming past due. The part credit plays and how people use it come home early to these youths.

Annually, on the occasion of salutes to the nation's newspaperboys, it is the practice to stress the important places filled by former carriers in adult life. Instead, attention should be directed to the current group of young Americans who, in rain or shine, in summer and winter, walk their daily routes and learn the lessons that in the years ahead will help assure the nation a sound core of leadership.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The New Colonialism

In the remarkable television discussion last August between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan, the Prime Minister raised the question of colonialism and what he said on that occasion takes on a fresh meaning because of his outstanding victory in last week's election. He said:

"... Now I know what colonialism means to Americans, because my mother was American. It means the Boston Tea Party and George III and all that. But colonialism had a good side, too. And now we are changing the old Empire into the new Commonwealth. We've got a lot of problems ahead of us still in Africa and so forth, but we will solve them. And you have only to look round and see what is happening—India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana, Malaya, Nigeria soon, West Indies.

"It's the road on which we are traveling, and it isn't a sign of weakness, it's a sign of strength. Don't let anyone in America think it's the sun setting on the British Empire, it's the dawn rising on the new Commonwealth, and it's all part of the same story."

When the United Nations was formed, the General Assembly consisted of 51 nations; this has now been increased to 82 nations. We are living in an era of national proliferation. And each country regards itself as sovereign, significant, important. Many of these nations cannot support themselves on a modern basis and are being assisted by other powers. It is probable that votes in the General Assembly of the United Nations are, if one will pardon the vulgarity of the expression, for sale, in the sense that they are cast in favor of that power whence comes aid or where there is expectation of support. It is a sort of diplomatic back-scratching.

While the fragmentation of Empire continues and new states are being born, a contrary movement emanates from Soviet Russia and Red China. They have, in fact, entered upon a career of intensive imperialism. Soviet Russia has absorbed imperialistically in Europe alone Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Albania and East Germany. When Hungary attempted to establish its independence, it was wracked by Khrushchev's armies and all the so-called satellites were taught by unmeasured brutality to behave according to the Kremlin's code.

It is not likely that any of these countries will soon risk an uprising. Soviet Russia is not expanding in Europe, but is moving into Central Asia.

Red China's imperialism has to do with the filling out of the Chien Lung line, that is, the farthest extent of the Chinese Empire during the Manchu dynasty. This includes parts of India and there conflict has already asserted itself. In Tibet, Red China has put down the theocracy of the Dalai Lama with characteristic brutality. Already one province of India, Kerala, is Communist and Red Chinese troops have marched into Ladakh, Sikkim and Bhutan; they are expected to attempt forays into Nepal, Assam and parts of Burma. The conquest of India could lead to World War III.

Pakistan is a member of SEATO and we would be required by treaty to go to war in Pakistan's defense. India is a member of the Commonwealth and if India called on Great Britain for aid, the British would be morally bound to come to the rescue, as would Pakistan and Ceylon. And the United States would not be able to stay out.

So whereas the Western Powers, as Prime Minister Macmillan said, are abandoning imperialism for a co-operative commonwealth of free peoples—a pattern which France is, in a measure, following after its own fashion, Soviet Russia and Red China are building Empire. What is so interesting is that to every question concerning this, Khrushchev, in effect, replied coarsely, "Mind your own business," or as they would say in the area where he was reared, "Keep your nose out of my pot."

Khrushchev, the harbinger of peace, who stood before the United Nations, a veritable Micah, telling the world what to do about its swords, has been unable or he did not really try to get Red China to adopt his program of peace. What will he say if during a Summit Conference, Mao Tze-tung explodes the whole of Asia into war? Will Khrushchev call Mao an imperialist and join the West in putting him in his place? That will be the test.

'Only Two Facts Are Available, Mr. President'

Will Compulsory Arbitration Be Demanded?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A tragedy in American economic life is unfolding before the country. Two big and powerful economic forces have come to grips in the steel strike, and all the influences of reason and self-restraint have thus far not been able to produce a settlement — primarily because there is no effective communication between the two sides.

The federal government has stepped in to attempt to bring about some form of communication — some discussion that is concrete and tangible and is devoid of the sparring or fencing that so often characterizes the collective bargaining progress. The next few days will tell whether this latest move is successful.

For if what has just happened is a sample of what the American people are up against in the battle of Big Unionism versus Big Business, then indeed a grave situation confronts the nation that can inflict incalculable damage on innocent bystanders.

The fact-finding board appointed by President Eisenhower, under the chairmanship of Dr. George W. Taylor of the University of Pennsylvania, an experienced arbitrator in labor disputes, has found already one depressing fact — neither side is really willing to negotiate unless certain conditions are met first.

Management, according to Dr. Taylor, has been unwilling to negotiate on any wage demand that would raise steel production costs by more than two per cent. Labor has been adamant in demanding that there should be no change in contract provisions regarding "work rules."

This is the basis of the deadlock that has persisted all through this strike. In other years the employers have usually surrendered. This has caused labor-union leaders to assume that, if they hold out long enough now, there will be another surrender. But this time it is apparent the steel companies can't surrender because they know they don't dare risk raising steel prices, especially in the face of foreign competition. They know also that, if the steel settlement sets in motion a general raise in wages and prices in other industries, the net result will be to boost the cost of the materials and other products bought by the steel companies.

The Steelworkers Union is in a weaker position than usual because the strike has been a costly one to their members and also, as it looks now the 80-day injunction under the Taft-Hartley Act will be invoked. It's all well enough for the union leaders to say they'll strike again at the end of the 80-day period, but they don't really mean it.

For the end of the 80-day days will come in midwinter and also at a time when Congress will be in session, and the result may be the enactment of legislation along the lines of compulsory arbitration which the union does not wish to see passed.

But why can't an agreement be negotiated by reasonable men? Dr. Taylor, at the board's hearing, demanded of the labor chief, David McDonald, to reveal whether the union's position on wages was "negotiable." When he answered, "Yes," the employer representative, R. Conrad Cooper, said:

"We have come all this way for Mr. McDonald to say his wage demands are negotiable. It has not been so in the meetings we have had."

Strictly speaking, the union can say now it has been willing to "negotiate" and be consistent with what it has said before, but PRESIDENT'S FRIEND—President Eisenhower's vacation at the Palm Springs, Calif., retreat of his friend George E. Allen has revived public interest in the man whose personality has enabled him to be a close friend of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The question is how any one man could become a crony of three such different personalities. The answer seems to lie in Allen's ability to be interested in the relaxing hobbies of Presidents. He is an excellent, though not smutty, story teller and he violates no confidences.

In turn Allen has been a poker player with Truman and a bridge and golfing companion of Eisenhower. He is also reputed to take care of Eisenhower's personal investments.

What if Vice President Nixon should succeed to the White House? The current joke around Washington is that "Eisenhower keeps Allen so busy he hasn't time to cultivate Nixon."

Many Diseases 'Favor' One Sex Over Other

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Gall bladder disease and thyroid disorders are more common in women, whereas men are more likely to develop peptic ulcer, angina pectoris, or coronary thrombosis. Both sexes are prone to develop high blood pressure but this condition is less serious in women than in men. Statistics show that hypertension does not shorten her life provided the diastolic reading is not sky high.

Many reasons exist for the prevalence of certain diseases in one sex but no one has been able to use these reasons as a preventive or cure. There is a difference in body size and fat content and each has the characteristics of his or her sex in reacting to external stimuli.

Women take pain better than men and are more moderate in their habits and more sensible about illness. Men are more ambitious, strive to support the family, and do their best to live up to the reputation of being the stronger sex.

On the other hand, it is logical to assume that the only tangible difference between the two sexes is in the hormones that are manufactured in the sex glands and circulate throughout the body. But treating a predominantly male disease with female hormones usually fails.

Arteriosclerosis may be an exception. The condition develops a good decade sooner in husbands than in wives and it may be delayed in men by giving female hormones. These products often have feminizing effects that are objectionable.

Other diseases that favor men include bronchitis, bronchiectasis, emphysema, pulmonary tuberculosis, cancer of the stomach, and cirrhosis of the liver. Anemia, osteoarthritis, tetany, and nervous disorders predominate in women. Gout is 20 times and cancer of the lung six times more prevalent in men than in women. The circulatory disorder, Buerger's disease, is rare in the female sex.

CORTISONE AND HEART

I. H. writes: I am an arthritic sufferer and the only medicine that helps me is cortisone. I have been told that this remedy is harmful to the heart. Is this true?

REPLY Not if the heart is normal. On the other hand, cortisone and the other adrenal steroids are potent and must be used under the careful guidance of a physician. They do not affect the heart unless the structure is damaged and too weak to function properly. In fact, these products are used occasionally in the treatment of heart disorders that occur during rheumatic fever.

RELATED CONDITIONS

C. M. writes: Does a high cholesterol necessarily mean arteriosclerosis?

REPLY No, but the two are closely associated. Persons who develop heart attacks as a result of

Morse Set Mediation Precedent On Eve Of Pearl Harbor Attack

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Behind the valiant efforts of Prof. George W. Taylor to end the steel strike has been the precedent of Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who kept the railroads and the railroad brotherhoods together for 30 continuous hours in 1941 and finally prevented a nationwide railroad strike on the eve of Pearl Harbor.

Morse, then a professor at the University of Oregon, bottled up the railroad presidents and the brotherhood executives into six rooms in the Raleigh Hotel here until they came to an agreement on December 6.

Neither they nor anyone else except the Japanese warlords knew that next day the Japanese fleet would precipitate war. Had Morse failed, Pearl Harbor would have found the nation in the throes of the worst railroad strike in history.

However, there is one great difference between the powers Morse exercised and those given to George Taylor. Taylor is also a university professor (Pennsylvania) and an extremely able labor negotiator. He was responsible for the little steel formula during the war. But under the Taft-Hartley Act he has had no power to act as arbitrator or mediator, or even make a recommendation. The Taft-Hartley Act forbids it.

On the other hand, Senator Morse was acting under the Railroad Labor Act, which gives authority to an emergency board to make specific recommendations for settlement.

Senator Morse, recalling the 1941 railroad labor crisis, told this reporter: "Under the Taft-Hartley Act, George Taylor has had to run around with his hat in his hand pleading with both parties to let him try to bring them together. He can't do anything unless they agree. This was one reason I opposed the Taft-Hartley Act, and proposed an emergency disputes act instead."

"This would provide a mediator with the power to render decisions. Both management and labor opposed this on the ground that it was compulsory arbitration. However, when mediation fails and the health and safety of the nation are imperiled, then government has to step in. That's what government is for and that's what Congress may have to re-examine next January."

People-To-People

A lot of people have written that they are acting immediately on the idea of sending copies of the Oct. 5 Life magazine to Moscow with their names and addresses on them as an indication of our desire to get better acquainted with the Russian people. This is the issue with Khrushchev's photo on the front cover inspecting corn in Iowa. It contains a lot of other photos of Mr. K's welcome in the USA, showing quite clearly that the majority of American people were friendly and just as anxious for peace with the Russian people as Mr. K says the Russians are for peace with us.

This issue of Life also contains some other articles which will intrigue the Russian people—including the papers of Benjamin Franklin, the story of a new Japanese dance troupe at Las Vegas, a wild ride by boat down the Colorado River, photos of our new X-15, and some shots of Nelson Rockefeller politicking at a class reunion at Dartmouth. There are also two crime stories which don't make us look so good, but it never pays to pretend we're perfect.

The above sounds as if I were a public relations man for Life, which I'm not. As a matter of fact the Time-Life combine has panned me unmercifully for some years. I just happen to think that sending this issue to Moscow by the thousands is a good way to act on Mr. K's repeated statement that he wants peace and friendship between the American and Russian people.

The magazine can be mailed.

unsealed, for 22 cents ordinary mail; $3.31 air mail; to Georgi Zhukov, Chairman of the State Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, Moscow. I've cabled him to expect a lot of copies for distribution to the Russian people. We'll see if he means business.

How Times Change!

Public memory is short. But some of those who watched the famed televised Army-McCarthy hearings which led to the censure of the Senator from Wisconsin, may have had their memory jogged when they saw another interesting television shot of David Schine and his papa welcoming Premier Khrushchev to the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles.

If David and Meyer Schine didn't kiss the Soviet Prime Minister it was only because Mr. K is too fast on his feet.

It was David Schine who caused great damage to Army morale when he demanded preferred treatment at Fort Dix, N.J. and got Senator McCarthy to back him up. This precipitated the battle royal between Secretary of the Army Bob Stevens, and McCarthy, which the Senate later getting into the act.

It was also young David Schine who traveled all over Europe with his side-kick Roy Cohn investigating U.S. Information Agency offices, and destroying both books and reputations.

When Joe McCarthy was asked why he had hired David Schine, the reply was that Schine had written a booklet against Communism. It turned out to be nothing but a few elementary pages. Those who saw young David fawning over the Soviet Premier now wonder whether he will write a new booklet for distribution to hotel patrons on the evils of anti-Communism.

Attorney General Bill Rogers is flatly opposed to letting James Durfee, Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, become judge of the Court of Claims while Congress is adjourned. He says too many other interim appointments have been blocked by Congress—notably that of Secretary of Commerce Lewis Strauss. . . . The White House is looking for some courageous characters to bolster the CAB. Harnar Denny, the ex-Congressman from Pennsylvania and no strength to civil aeronautics, is due to retire soon. Ike will not reappoint him. Ex-Sen. Chan Gurney of South Dakota is also considered a sad sack. So the White House wants to locate some GOP stalwarts who understand the fundamentals of aviation.

Interesting Shift

By Leslie Gould

The shift in the management line-up of the General Development Corp. — the Florida real estate company — is interesting from several angles.

The most important are the change in board chairman and the bringing on the board of three financial men with important Wall Street and banking connections.

Gardner Cowles, head of the Cowles publications, is increasing his investment and becoming board chairman.

Gabriel Hauge, chairman of the Manufacturers Trust Co. finance committee and former economic adviser to President Eisenhower; John L. Weinberg, Goldman Sachs & Co. partner and son of Sidney Weinberg; and H. H. Bassett, a top officer of the First National Bank of Miami, are becoming directors.

Next of importance to these changes is the profit — paper and real — running into the millions Louis Chesler, the former Toronto stock broker, has made in promoting this venture.

This is in addition to the also huge profits he has made in another fast moving stock — Universal Controls, which makes among other things the "tote" boards used at race tracks.

In less than three years Chesler has parlayed a $4 million stake, made mostly in promoting Canadian mining stocks, into $75 million. And he is still on the sunny side of 50.

Until his just disclosed sale of 250,000 General Development shares to Cowles, his holdings of 1,782,702 shares — 28 per cent — were worth around $40 million at the current market. His original cost was less than $5 million.

Chesler is "locked in" on the remaining shares by SEC rules, unless the stock is registered with the SEC. This column exclusively disclosed in April that Chesler's holdings were tied up by the SEC. At that time the SEC was looking into the wild gyrations in General Development shares on the American Stock Exchange. This was just before what amounted to a 2½-for-one splitup of the shares became effective.

The pre-splitup shares had a sensational rise, going from $8.12½ last year to $77.50 last March, only to break to $45.12½ in the next two weeks.

The shares in Chesler's other venture — Universal Controls — had an almost equally spectacular rise and decline.

Chesler paid the equivalent of $2.86 for the bulk of General Development stock. He paid less for stock bought prior to 1957.

He moved into the Florida real estate ahead of the crowd, picking up first one of those corporate shells — Chemical Research Corp. of Detroit. He turned it into a real estate company, buying large tracts of land and selling lots under a big promotional campaign at $10 down and $10 a month.

When it sells a lot at $10 down, the company reports immediately the profit that will be realized when the final monthly payment is made in 8½ years.

Another major activity is home building, and under the new management setup greater emphasis will be on this, rather than lot selling. This is the part of the operation run by the Mackle brothers, long identified with Florida construction. F. E. Mackle Jr. is president.

Chesler developed Universal Controls in much the same manner as General Development, picking up first a corporate shell. This was Universal Products Corp. Chesler and his group put up $3½ million and gained control of Universal's $10 million cash. With Universal's cash, Chesler bought control of American Totalisator, which makes and leases "tote" boards and added other enterprises.

Chesler started out in life as a customers' man in a Toronto brokerage office and came to the U.S. in '36.

North Hagerstown's dashing Hubs confronted Fort Hill with a wide-open offense that enabled them to outgain the Sentinels, but a pair of long punt returns by reserve halfback Jerry Bell set up one touchdown and scored another to lead Coach Charlie Lattimer's unbeaten, once-tied crew to a 20-13 victory last night at the Stadium.

The hard-earned Fort Hill triumph gives the city schools a sweep over North High this year. Allegany, having upped the Hubs 39-20, several weeks ago. The Sentinels are now 5-0-1 for the season and own a 2-0-1 mark in the Cumberland Valley Athletic League. The loss was the third for North Hagerstown against two wins and a tie.

Bell, a slightly built senior who has seen plenty of action in the Sentinel backfield this year, hauled in Kenny Ridenour's punt on his own 37-yard line midway in the first period and made his way 63 yards down the right side-lines for the first score in a game which found the Hubs come from behind to tie things up twice.

Ridenour's Passing Clicks

Quarterback Ridenour, who harassed the Fort Hill defenses throughout the battle with his sharp passes, got the Hubs rolling late in the opening quarter after a quick kick by Fort Hill's Mike Zembower traveled only 16 yards and gave the visitors possession on the Sentinel 40 yard line.

Ridenour connected with Jim Snyder on an eight-yard screen pass, and when a pair of thrusts at the line failed to advance the ball, took to the air again on a fourth down situation. Tom Hawkins plucked the ball out of the hands of two Fort Hill defenders at the 11 yard line, then shot through a wide gap in the right tackle slot for the tie-producing TD. Bob Caesar's extra point attempt from placement was good.

The Sentinels, who run very few of their plays through the air, attempted only three aerials in the entire game, but completed two of them on propitious occasions, the first one coming in the second period to spark their second scoring drive.

Green Tallies TD

After Dave Clem returned Caesar's kickoff to midfield following the Hubs' touchdown, the Sentinels marched to the North 21, where it looked as if the attack might fizzle out. But halfback Zembower, on fourth down, grabbed a pitchout from Paul Green and tossed a 22-yard pass to Delbert Helmick, the other halfback, for a first down at the one yard stripe. Green sneaked over on the next play and Dave Houser kicked the point after for a 13-6 Fort Hill lead at halftime.

Fort Hill held the ball for only six plays in the third quarter, but almost managed to score during this time. North High, which lost the ball on downs three during the course of the contest, relinquished possession at the Sentinel 45 when a gamble failed to pay off, and Bob Shrewbridge slanted off tackle for a 3-yard gain to the Hub 17. Three runs up the middle accounted for only three yards, and Richie Hawkins batted down Helmick's fourth down pass to wipe out the threat.

A similar situation saw the Hubs lose the ball on downs again at the Fort Hill 17 when Tom Hawkins, needing five yards for a first, could get nowhere through the Sentinel line.

Scores On Fumble

Hawkins redeemed himself moments later, however, by picking up Frank Robinson's fumble on the five and racing into the end zone. This time Caesar converted and the clubs were knotted again at 13-all.

Bell again became the "man of the hour" when he took Ridenour's punt at the Fort Hill 47 and ran it back to the Hagerstown 22, from where it took the locals only three plays to reach paydirt. Green's pass to Helmick covering 18 yards, scored the touchdown, and Houser tacked on the extra point to all but put the game out of reach for the Hubs, who battled back gamely in the closing minutes.

Four straight passes were thrown by Ridenour after the Hubs had moved to the Sentinel 25. The Hub passer had plenty of protection in getting the ball away, but his intended receivers were well covered and the Sen-

Cal, ranked No. 7 in the current Associated Press survey, will have its defensive giants in good shape for Washington, 4-0 and ranked 18th. The Trojans (4-0) had last weekend off helping tackle Dan Ficca and Mike McKeever recover from injuries.

Syracuse (No. 8) still the nation's top defensive team, will be out to revenge its only 1958 regular season loss when the Crusaders eked out a 14-13 win. Holy Cross lost first string quarterback Dick O'Brien last week and must rely on reserves.

LSU Faces Kentucky

Louisiana State, top-ranked and getting stronger each week, travels to Kentucky to begin defense of its Southeastern Conference crown. Coach Paul Dietzel's men have not allowed four opponents a touchdown, giving only two field goals in rolling up a 4-0 mark.

Georgia Tech (No. 4) has another toughie in Auburn, also a key SEC game.

Mississippi, with a 4-0 mark and unscathed on the 4-0 SEC for Tulane. Tulane has won its last two for a 2-2 mark.

Second-ranked Northwestern (3-0) goes to Michigan, a team it used as a springboard to fame last year with a stunning 55-24 upset. The Wildcats may be in trouble if newly found quarterback Bob Eichoff isn't over a stiff right shoulder and halfback Ron Burton can't shake a weak ankle.

Unbeaten, but once-tied Purdue (No. 6) plays Ohio State, a shut-out victim in its last two games. The Boilermakers (2-0-1) don't figure to let up with their staunch defense that has given only one touchdown. Iowa and Wisconsin, both 2-1, go at it in another Big Ten affair with ninth-ranked Iowa pitting its passing attack that leads the conference against a so-so Wisconsin pass defense.

TV Game Of The Day

Penn State (No. 10), with a 4-0 record, plays Boston University. The television game of the day is from East Lansing, Mich., where Notre Dame faces Michigan State. It is set for 1:30 p.m. EST over NBC-TV.

Colow Sparks Southern High To 3d Victory

Sparked by Terry Colow, who scored all of the touchdowns and ran one of the two extra points, Southern High School of Oakland posted its third straight victory at the expense of Kingwood High's Stags last night at Kingwood, W. Va., for its third triumph against as many defeats.

Colow scored twice on passes thrown by Dick Stuck, the first in the opening period on a 30-yarder and the second on a 23-yard heave in the final period.

In the third quarter Colow went over from the three and also tacked on the extra point.

The conversion following the final score was credited to Keith Butler on a run.

Southern rolled up a total of 258 yards on the ground and 238 yards through the air and reeled off ten first downs to the Stags' five.

The loss was the sixth in a row for the Preston Countians.

Score by periods:

Southern 6 0 7 7-20

Touchdowns: Southern — Terry Colow 3.

Extra points: Southern — Terry Colow, Butler.

Miami Trims Middies, 23-8

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two long, slashing touchdown drives by Miami in the last quarter broke down a spirited Navy team Friday night and the Hurricanes beat the Middies 23-8 to spoil their first visit to Florida.

Little Fran Curci threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Jack Herman and Bob Rosbaugh raced 17 yards for another score to break up a stirring duel before 51,694 fans. It now is the first time since 1951 that Navy has lost three games in a row.

Navy 0 0 8 0-8

Miami 7 3 0 13-23

Touchdowns: Miami — Bufford 2 run (Dangel kick); Fg Dangel 30.

Navy — Belline 1 run (Bezdek pass from Maxfield).

Miami — Herman 16 pass from Curci (Dangel kick).

Miami — Rosbaugh 17 (pass failed).

Fort Hill's previous longest run without a loss lasted 20 games (19-0-1) in 1947, 1948 and 1949.

Allegany holds the city record for consecutive wins and that's 19 for the seasons of 1941, 1942 and 1943.

Keyser High boasts the area high for consecutive football victories, a total of 26. This string was snapped in November, 1957, when the Golden Tornado dropped a 14-13 decision to Huntington Vinson in the West Virginia Class A title contest at Buckhannon.

Here's how Fort Hill has fared in games during its undefeated streak:

1956—Allegany, 20-0.
1957—LaSalle 13-6, Frederick 20-0, Martinsburg 41-13, Beall 46-0, Handley 17-0, Westminster 34-14, Northwestern 36-0, South Hagerstown 40-0, North Hagerstown 67-6, Allegany 28-6.

1958—LaSalle 45-7, Frederick 53-14, Martinsburg 52-7, Beall 27-0, Handley 38-6, North Hagerstown 6-6 tie, Westminster 65-28, South Hagerstown 34-0, Allegany 21-6.

1959—LaSalle 39-6, Frederick 7-7 tie, Martinsburg 44-0, Beall 32-0, Handley 13-0, North Hagerstown 20-13.

ELECTION of Stan Keck, star tackle of Princeton University from 1919 through 1921, to Football's Hall of Fame, brought back memories of the game Keck played during the 1940s.

It was about 1923 when Law took his Bulldogs to Connellsville to play the Tornadoes whose star-studded line included Keck at one of the tackle positions. The Bulldogs took a beating, "like" recalls.

There were two other former college All-America players in the Connellsville lineup that day, according to Mr. Law.

CHARLIE SILVERA, New York Yankees' second string catcher, who played second fiddle to Yogi Berra for many years, confided to friends recently that he collected $45,000 in World Series money while appearing in only one game.

That was in the 1949 series when he batted twice.

Silvera managed Binghamton last year but he's out of a job now.

IF VALLEY HIGH School goes on to win the WMI Soccer League championship this year John C. Meyers will become the winningest coach in the 33-year history of the circuit.

At the present time Meyers is tied with John "Chip" Grindle, former Bruce coach, each having coached eight championship teams.

Meyers has tutored six straight winners at Valley, 1953 through 1958, and two at old Central High, 1949 and 1950.

Grindle had six straight winners at Bruce, 1930 through 1935, and scored again in 1937 and 1948.

Barton also had six championship teams in a row, 1921 through 1926.

Meyers could hang up another new mark this year if the Black Knights bag their seventh straight championship.

"FOOTBALL'S Miracle Men," or the Baltimore Colts' story, by John F. Steadman, is just off the press and this 192-page volume of the Colts' 11-year haul to the N.F.L. championship makes highly entertaining reading.

Steadman is a Baltimore sports editor and served as publicity director of the Colts for three years.

The book is loaded with stories about Baltimore teams from 1947 through 1958 and is enlightening, warm and wonderful.

Among the many anecdotes is one concerning the Colts' Bert Rechichar.

In a game against Detroit, Howard "Hopalong" Cassidy got what he thought was extra rough treatment from Rechichar. Cassidy complained to the referee that the Baltimore player scratched him. This Bert denied.

"Kid, this is the pros," he told him. "This isn't Ohio State. And we don't scratch up here. We just tear your eyeballs out."

30,000 May See Panthers Play West Virginia

MOUNTAINEERS Must Stop Ivan Tonic

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—The presence of quarterback Ivan Tonic might interrupt a tradition of old fashioned head-bucking football contests between the University of Pittsburgh and West Virginia's Mountaineers.

Tonic's seven touchdown passes for Pitt has tied the school's all-time record. The veteran signal-caller was injured when the Panthers lost their only game to Southern California.

Ivan will demand much of the attention from a near-capacity crowd that may go over 30,000 for Saturday's 1:30 p.m., EST, kickoff.

The local area forecast is for fair and windy weather, with cloudiness.

West Virginia has not played an opponent to date in Pitt's class, while the Panthers have beaten Marquette, UCLA and Duke. The Mountaineers were trounced by Maryland, then edged past Richmond and George Washington in Southern Conference games, and lost last week to Boston University.

The Pitt invasion will signal the Mountaineers' most rugged section of football schedule perhaps in history — with Syracuse, Penn State and Southern Cal to follow in that order. All four rank in the nation's top 20.

Mountaineer fans generally expect a loss Saturday, but they never count out their favorites against traditional rival Pitt. Coach Art Lewis may dip into a psychological bag of tricks and start a sophomore-dominated unit.

Lewis' "rah-rah" eleven would include junior quarterback Carmen Pomponio and 10 first-year men — Bob Timmerman and Bob Lavelle or Dick Strick at ends, Bob Fletcher and John Peters at tackle, Bill Winter and Charles Martin at guards, Vearl Haynes at center, Roger Holdinsky and Dick Hanger at halfback, and Curt Harmon at fullback.

If that team does not get Lewis' last-minute starting nod, he'll go with a more experienced unit that would have Danny Williams, a junior, at quarterback.

Mounties Won 12

The halfbacks would be Ray Peterson and John Marra. Bob Chicago Cards at Cleveland, Pittsburgh Cardinals at Washington and San Francisco at Detroit.

Ben McComb and Dave Hess at ends, Carl Dannenberg and Glenn Bowmen at tackle, Bill Lopasky and Pete Tolley at guard, and Joe Wirth at center.

West Virginia has beaten Pitt 12 times in 51 games. The 1909 game was a scoreless tie.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Even if you can't put this letter in the paper, I wish you'd let D. M. F. know that she isn't the only one who has had a nervous breakdown and is having trouble being accepted by family and friends.

When I lost my 28-year-old son suddenly I went completely to pieces. For almost two years I was institutionalized. When I returned home, my sisters and brothers, in-laws and friends treated me like a freak, called me "half there" and made me feel as if I didn't belong out among people.

If society would only accept the fact that mental illness is curable and those who have suffered a breakdown of the mental machinery must have the kindness and understanding of those around them. No one shuns a cured tuberculosis or cancer patient. Why should a person who has suffered an illness of the mind be treated differently?

Please give these people encouragement to go on, Ann. They need it desperately — G. E. W. (52 years old)

DEAR G. E. W.: A letter from "a member of the lodge" is always more effective. Thank you for writing.

And a verbal laurel wreath to all who are winning the difficult uphill fight against mental illness. This is the most heroic of battles and there are no medals — only scars.

DEAR ANN: My daughter is 28, has been married almost a year and is 4 months pregnant. She is a school teacher and married to an unemployed professional man. He can get a good job any time but claims there's a recession on. He has traveled half-way across the country (on borrowed money) to find a job. He returned, said "things were bad there, too," and is still unemployed.

Their trouble started on the honeymoon. He left her every night in a second rate hotel while he went out "for coffee." She was alone a good bit of the time. He said he wanted to take her on "a fabulous honeymoon" but she wound up bailing them out of the hotels and paying for most of their meals.

In short he is a lazy bum and she is struggling to keep a roof over both their heads. She can't work much longer in her condition but we don't want to insist that she come home. What shall we do? — WORRIED MOM

DEAR MOM: Don't do anything. It's her lazy bum, her life and her decision.

Simply let your daughter know she can always have bed and board with you if things get intolerable. But make no effort to persuade her to leave her husband.

DEAR ANN: I am sure mad at you for siding with that little brother who got his older sister in trouble because she tapped him lightly on the head. He screamed bloody murder and her father came in and the girl caught heck when all she did was just barely touch him.

I think this was just rotten of you. It is very plain that YOU never had a little brother. I have two and they are both brats. Every teen-age girl who has a younger brother hates you.

ANTI-ANN LANDERS. DEAR ANTI: You are right—I never had a younger brother. But a lot of teen-agers who have younger brothers wrote to tell me they hate me, too. Have you kids got a union or what?

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

In Memoriam

In sad but loving remembrance of our daughter and granddaughter, Shirley Jean, who departed this life 14 years ago today, Oct. 17, 1945. Peaceful be the rest, little darling. 'Tis sweet to breathe thy name. In life we loved you dearly. In death we miss you sorely. We never shall forget you, Shirley. While in this world we stay, We hope that we shall meet again. When God calls us away. Sadly missed by her mother, Mrs. Oliver Hickman, Grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weinberger.

County Shelves Bounties For Hawks And Owls

$2,941 In Payments Made Last Year

Allegany County payments should be cut sharply below the $2,941 paid out during the fiscal year which ended June 30, as a result of yesterday's action of the Board of County Commissioners in rescinding bounties on hawks and owls, effective Monday.

Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor, who disclosed that payments in the past fiscal year for bounties added up to $2,941, said she did not have a breakdown as to what share of the total was paid out for dead hawks and owls. Other Court House attaches indicated that possibly half of the total was paid for hawks and owls.

Bounty payments still in effect include $4 for wildcats, $3 for foxes and $1 for weasels. Hawk and owl bounties had been $1 for the past 16 years, and were 50 cents for many years before 1943.

County Commissioner John Tucker Mason made the proposal to eliminate the hawk and owl bounty payments.

At yesterday's session, Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said that Allegany and Washington counties are the only ones in Maryland paying bounties on hawks and owls.

The game warden said that hawks are birds of prey, but their damage is not as great as the good they do in killing rats and mice and similar pests in farming areas.

Also requesting that the bounty be rescinded were Kendrick Hodzdon, a science teacher at Valley High School and also a member of the Maryland Ornithological Society, who has been waging a fight against killing of hawks and owls for bounty during the past 10 years. John Workmeister of the Allegany County Bird Club also asked that the bounties be dropped.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said he is against the bounty payments because in some cases the birds are killed in nearby West Virginia, Garrett County and even Pennsylvania by county residents who receive a bounty payment from Allegany County.

Police Group Plans Hiring With City

A committee from the Fraternal Order of Police met with department and city officials yesterday to discuss a charter amendment resolution which would allow hiring of non-resident patrolmen and give them a chance to seek top positions.

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said a major objection to the order was that the resolution also applied to the chief of police. They had no objection to obtaining patrolman applicants under such a plan, he said, adding that he was in sympathy with their views as they applied to the chief position.

The group was also assured, Fleming said, that the position of chief of police comes under Civil Service, and this was concurred in by City Attorney William R. Carscaden and City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, secretary to the Civil Service Commission, who also attended.

Fleming, who is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor J. Edwin Keech, said the committee also questioned him about rumors that the administration plans to abolish the Civil Service Commission.

Fleming said that as acting mayor he felt qualified to issue this statement: "There is no foundation to the rumor and never, since taking office, has the Mayor and Council discussed such a move."

Secrets Of Charm

Three Smooth-Hip Tricks

Because the following Powers inside of your feet—that's the Girl discussion gives a three-way solution to one of the ills that is most prevalent among the fairer sex, (namely hips that start to strain at the tape) I'm giving it to you word for word.

Model E. F.: "I'm structurally wide across the hips. There's no way to decrease the actual size of the bones short of using a chisel. But being smart about the lines of clothes does it effectively... and painlessly!"

"The designers sure had me in mind when they dreamed up skirts with vertical lines. Peg tops are fine, too. Their asymmetrical hip detail slashes right across my hip girth and practically cuts off inches."

Model E. M.: "I watch for those same lines. But without constant diet and exercise, I tend toward the roly-poly. And as I discovered long ago, nothing molds the rounded flesh at the hips like a good foundation garment! An expert corsetier led me to one of the new, four-section ones that really holds that line... and without pushing any flesh up into my waistline. The way all the clothes fitted over it at my last fashion show proves it!"

Model H. L.: "Clothes have nothing to do with my hip problem! My spies told me that on the runway last week, I had more than a suggestion of a waddle. Believe me, I got up to the walking consultant before nine the next morning!"

"After watching me parade and finding nothing wrong, she gave me a puzzled look and asked, 'What kind of shoes did you wear?'"

"Pretty, but 1928 pointy and they hurt," I said, remembering the pinches.

"That's it!" she said. "When shoes fit improperly, you unconsciously walk any way that eases the pressure. If shoes hurt your little toes, you walk on the..."

Printers Open 86th Tri-State Conference

Equipment Display Open To Public

For the first time in the history of modern development in graphic arts, a display of the latest printing and typesetting equipment is open to the general public at the Fort Cumberland Hotel grill room.

The occasion is the 86th semi-annual Tri-State Typographical Conference which opened last evening and will continue today and tomorrow with the Fort Cumberland Hotel as headquarters.

A full page on the Tri-State Typographical Conference appears as page 6 of today's News. The page was prepared by members of Cumberland Local 244, ITU.

Fifty delegates of an expected 250 from Western Maryland, Northern Virginia and Western Pennsylvania had arrived last night and the hotel reported a "sellout." The Tri-State Conference includes 27 printers' unions. Local Union 207

Cumberland Local 244, ITU, and Womens Auxiliary 52 are serving as hosts for the conference delegates and their ladies. The local conference committee includes Burland E. DeBolt, chairman; A. J. Chorpennig, Raleigh G. Ritchie, Louis W. Aldridge, C. Raymond Weatherholt, Donald R. Beynon, Jack W. Wetzel and James M. Monahan.

Three past presidents of the conference are in attendance, including Mr. DeBolt of the Cumberland local, John Feigel of Pittsburgh, and Irvin Kelley, Altoona, Pa., also serving as conference secretary-treasurer. The president, who will preside at all sessions, is Alfred Glaser, of Beaver Falls, Pa.

The first business session will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the hotel grill room. This will be followed by a banquet at Ali Ghan Shrine City Club at 6:30 p.m., after Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, serving as toastmaster. Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of finance, will represent Mayor J. Edwin Keech in greeting the convention delegates and guests.

ITU Chief To Speak

The principal speaker at the banquet will be Elmer Brown, of Indianapolis, Ind., president of the International Typographical Union. The banquet will be followed by a dance at Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom with music by Jimmy Young's Nu-Tones.

On Sunday at 9 a.m. a meeting of the new process committee and all delegates will be held in the grill room, followed by the second and final business session at 10 a.m. This session will probably continue into the afternoon before all business is completed, delegates said last night. The committee on new processes includes Mr. Weatherholt, Mr. Ritchie, Mr. Wetzel and Walter W. Martz.

While the printers are in business session, visiting and local ladies attending the conference will be taken on a guided tour of the area's historic and beauty spots. The tour will begin at 10 a.m. with J. William Hunt as narrator. The ladies will attend a luncheon at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club at 12:30 p.m.

The exhibit of machines and new processing equipment was opened yesterday and attracted many visitors. The display, in the grill room of the hotel, will be open today to the public from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The various pieces of equipment will be demonstrated and actual production methods will be shown.

Vandals Smash Big Neon Sign

Vandals caused about $350 damage to the WTBO neon sign in the rear of Summit avenue, city police said yesterday.

Detective Lt. James E. Van said A. W. German, owner of the station, reported that some time after 6 p.m. Thursday vandals climbed the framework that holds the large letters of the sign.

Most of the neon tubes in each letter were broken, according to Mr. German, who said the same type of damage was done to the sign on October 2, when the repair cost amounted to $50.

Another report of vandalism was received from Homer Dickson, 134 New Hampshire Avenue, who said the trunk lid of his car was sprayed with paint when the car was parked near the Potomac Edison heating plant.

A case of larceny was reported by Paul Brockey of 921 Zihlman Way, who said $8 worth of medicine was taken from his car parked at Dexter Place near the PE heating plant.

10 Policemen To Start Pistol Course Monday

Ten members of the Cumberland Police Department will start a course of instruction on the use of the .38 calibre pistol Monday at 10 a.m. at the department's pistol range on Fort Hill.

Police Chief B. Frank Gaffney notified the 10 younger officers on the force to report to Sgt. John Newhouse who will begin the course with instruction on safety.

Those who will begin instruction are Officers James A. Brown, Wayne S. Swager, Joseph P. Nelson, Glenn Voils, James L. Stewart, James L. Bohn, Donald M. Boggs, Jon A. Bittner, John A. Harden and Muri Boggs.

Sgt. Newhouse, who has been teaching the use of the pistol since 1936, said safety and how to handle the pistol will be taught before live ammunition is placed in the chamber.

The course includes three phases—slow shooting, time, and rapid fire, according to Sgt. Newhouse, who said each session will last two hours once a week over a period of time.

"More practice makes a better shot," said Sgt. Newhouse, who reported that the men will fire from a distance of 15 yards, 25 yards and 50 yards.

The veteran police officer learned a lot about range shooting from books he read now and then, and also picked up valuable experience as a member of the pistol team of the local department which competed years ago in Baltimore, Washington, Harrisburg and other cities in the east.

Chief Gaffney, who was a member of the team, said yesterday that the course is a departmental program and that the 10 youngest members in service were chosen to begin the course.

Eventually all members of the department will get their chance on the range, he said.

Also expected to attend are past grand chancellors Julius Schindler, O. M. Brotemarkle and J. W. McKee, all of Cumberland. The Cumberland Lodge Knights have invited other area lodges to attend the ceremonies. They include Queen City Lodge 136, South Cumberland; Anchor Lodge 111, Midland; Rising Sun Lodge 86, Lonaconing; Garrett Lodge 113, Oakland; as well as Keyser and Piedmont lodges.

One of the principal topics of discussion on the agenda Monday night will be arrangements for "Know Your America Week."

Sponsored by the All-American Conference, "Know Your America Week" is scheduled November 22-29 and is pledged as a battle against Communism. President Eisenhower has endorsed the program and proclamations are issued states. The K. of P. lodge hopes to have county-wide participation in the program.

Following Monday's official visit, the local lodge will serve refreshments.

Partly Cloudy Day Forecast For This Area

Temperatures in the area are expected to be warmer today following a drop in the mercury Thursday night which brought the first heavy frost of the season.

The Weather Bureau calls for partly cloudy skies in the mountains, with the high expected to be between 65 and 73 degrees.

Yesterday's unofficial reading downtown was 68 degrees, but the mercury dipped to the mid-30s here Thursday night. The coldest spot in the section was at Oakland, where the reading was 25 yesterday morning.

R. E. Weber, weather observer at Oakland, reported the heavy frost yesterday morning killed tender vegetation.

$50,000 Suit From Shooting Is Moved Here

A $50,000 damage suit resulting from the fatal shooting of a Western Maryland Railway engineer in Hagerstown last November was moved to Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday from Washington County Circuit Court.

Janet Marie Cuddy, as administratrix of the estate of James R. Cuddy Jr., 28 Glenside Avenue, Hagerstown, brought the suit in Hagerstown against James T. Haney, 201 North Jonathan Street, Hagerstown.

The declaration charged that Haney, then a 68-year-old Western Maryland engineer, mortally wounded Cuddy, who was a 41-year-old engineer with the same railway, about 3:45 p.m. last November 15. Shot with a pistol, Cuddy died later the same day.

Mrs. Cuddy seeks $25,000 compensatory damages and $25,000 punitive and exemplary damages. Haney, through Hagerstown attorneys T. Aubrey Kemp and Charles F. Wagaman, suggested that he could not get a fair trial in Washington County and prayed removal. Associate Judge D. K. McLaughlin signed an order Thursday moving the case to this county.

The suit was filed for Mrs. Cuddy by Jacob B. Berkson and Edward W. Cooley, Hagerstown attorneys.

Runoff Needed For Top Post Of URWA Local

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, will hold a runoff election Tuesday, October 27 to decide the presidency of the local and two other union posts.

The union, which represents some 1,800 hourly-paid workers at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, held its biennial election Thursday, but candidates seeking three of the union's jobs failed to get a majority of the votes cast.

The runoff for president will be between Herbert M. Dye, a mill room worker, and Alva C. Lewis, of the curing room.

The other balloting next week will be between Joseph V. Burke and William S. Sheetz for treasurer, and between Ralph C. Beard and Eugene S. Brown for the policy committee.

Officers who were elected in Thursday's voting were James E. Green, vice president; Robert D. Swanner, secretary; and Jack B. Ruggles, who was unopposed for a two-year term as executive.

Members of the executive board named were Clyde O'Baker, Ralph C. Beard, Eugene S. Brown, William W. Jewell, Albert J. Jenkins, Rachel P. Muir and Charles M. Logue.

A. E. Johnson, incumbent president, did not seek re-election, and Charles Little, vice president, was the other candidate for the presidency.

Some 1,050 workers cast their ballots on voting machines which were used for the first time by the local union.

The election committee, Milson D. Leasure, Carl A. Robison and William L. Bodkin, said the machines worked "very satisfactorily." The machines were supplied by Kenneth W. Snyder of Baltimore.

The runoff election will be held in the conference room of the tire plant during the following periods on October 27: 6 a.m. to 7:30 a.m.; 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.; 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.; and 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Commissioners Get More Data On New Dams

Seek Meeting Soon With Representatives

County commissioners from Allegany and Garrett counties got some additional information yesterday afternoon on the proposed construction of three new dams in the Upper Potomac River watershed and concluded that it would be appropriate to have more federal money spent on the projects.

The discussion following luncheon at the Cumberland Country Club centered around a 1958 report of Joseph D. V. C. Birrell of the Washington District of the Corps of Engineers in which he proposed three additional dams in this area, one on the North Branch of the Potomac, a second dam on the Savage River about one mile upstream from the present one, and another dam on the Stony River in West Virginia.

Most concern was expressed about a portion of the report which said that the financing of the Potomac River dam would cost local interests in Maryland and West Virginia about $1,500,000 a year for the next 50 years. Naturally, none of the commissioners was inclined to commit his county to any such large scale expenditures.

More Federal Funds

One of the most immediate results of the two-county conference will be an effort to get U.S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Representatives John R. Foley and Harley O. Staggers, who represent the affected areas of Maryland and West Virginia, to meet with the county commissioners of the counties involved. An effort then would be made to get the federal government to assume a larger share of the cost. Mr. Birrell's report had recommended that the states and local governments together pay more than half of the cost.

Greatest local interest was in the proposed second Savage River Dam, according to John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County commissioners. The prospects of using this good water for the water supply of the George's Creek area and the Potomac Valley as far as Cresapton was discussed. This dam would be earth-filled, 173 feet high with a 330-acre pool.

Considerable sentiment for the Stony River Dam in West Virginia also was expressed. This dam, of rolled earth, would be 157 feet high and would have a 610-acre pool.

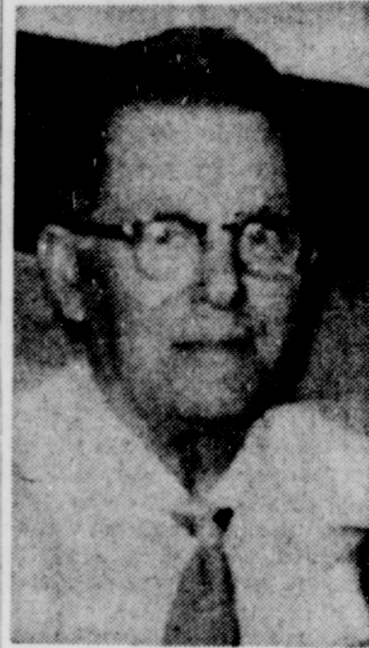

Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming pointed out that the new system will allow more cars to move on each light change.

Less Enthusiasm

However, there was much less enthusiasm over the proposed Potomac River Dam, which would be the largest of the three. It would be concrete and 283 feet high, and would have a 1,030-acre pool.

No one at yesterday's meeting was able to answer the question as to whether the three dams constituted a package deal or whether they could be built separately. There was no answer either as to whether the suggested $1,500,000 a year also would include maintenance cost.

J. R. Miller, Former B&O Clerk, Dies

J. Rex Miller, 61, former chief clerk here for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, died yesterday evening in Sacred Heart Hospital where he had been a patient two days.

Mr. Miller, who resided at 804 1/2 Gephart Drive, had been in ill health for some time.

He was employed for more than 30 years as chief clerk to the superintendent of shops and master mechanic for the B&O here.

Mr. Miller was one of the organizers of the B&O Credit Union and also served as a member of the board of directors of that organization for several years.

He also served a number of years on the board of directors of the B&O YMCA. Mr. Miller was a member of Centre Street Methodist Church and attended the Allegany County Academy. During World War I he served in the Student Army Training Corps.

A native of Baltimore, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Miller, of this city.

Surviving are his widow, Viola (MacBeth) Miller; two children, Mrs. Robert A. Mathews, and King O. Miller, both of this city; two brothers, Leslie O. Miller, Pittsburgh, and Percia E. Miller, Washington, D. C.; two sisters, Mrs. James W. Kirk and Mrs. Fay M. Mansfield, both of this city, and five grandchildren.

The body is at the George Funeral Home where the family will receive friends from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Baltimore St. Lighting Plan Is Discussed

The possibility of installing brighter lights on Baltimore Street was discussed yesterday morning in City Hall when representatives of the Retail Merchants Association and the Potomac Edison Company met with Water and Light Commissioner G. Ray Light.

The prospects of fluorescent or other new-type lights to brighten up the main stem were outlined at the informal meeting in the mayor's office. No definite action was taken.

What the project will cost the city and whether the present poles can be used were the two big items brought up at the meeting, according to Mr. Light, who said another meeting has been set for next Friday at 11:30 a.m. in the mayor's office.

Meanwhile, an engineer of the Potomac Edison Company will procure data on the new plan. It is hoped a breakdown on the cost of installing lights and possible use of the present poles will be available at the meeting.

The association indicated yesterday that it would pay for the new light fixtures if the city would bear the expense of installing them.

Mr. Light pointed out that at the present time the city cannot afford to install new poles along the street. He said plans of his department call for rewiring the present lights with new cable and painting the poles for at least 20 more years of use.

John J. Coyle, association chairman, who attended the meeting, said the merchants are trying to find out if some improvements can be made to the lighting of the street.

Bedford County Girl Is Killed By Automobile

Sharon Mose, 5, Dies Instantly

A five-year-old Bedford County (Pa.) girl, who was playing football with her cousin yesterday evening, was killed instantly when she darted into the path of a passing auto in front of her home about seven miles north of St. Clairsville.

Sharon Mose, police said, sustained a fractured skull and a fractured right leg when she was struck by a car driven by Robert C. Hileman, Box 11, Queens, Pa., who was traveling west on Route A4033 near the intersection of 05041.

The accident occurred about 6:05 p.m. 15 miles north of Bedford. The little girl, who ran off the lawn into the path of the car, was hurled about 19 feet after being hit by the right front fender of the vehicle.

The driver told police he did not see the little girl dart in front of his car. She was playing football with her cousin and was carrying the ball at the time of the accident, police said.

Dr. J. H. Kinsley, coroner of Bedford County, said an investigation is being continued.
